

Langport & its river

A re-discovery for the 2020s

Exploring the wild

On foot, cycle or by boat, roam freely along this delightful river and its picturesque riverbank paths to experience the glories of our corner of the Somerset Levels.

And everything is just a stone's throw from the bustling town centre!

One of a series of leaflets on exploring Langport

Photos: Stephen Hembury, Deon Warner

Illustrations: RSPB, Deon Warner

Front cover: James Thurtle

The River Parrett flows lazily past Langport as it crosses one of the most important wetlands in Europe. Whether you are looking from bridge, bank or boat, there is such a variety of creatures to spot, in the air, on the water, or teeming just under the surface; not forgetting the treasury of plants that line the river and rhynes, and cluster on the meadows. This stretch of the river is an important central point in the renewed River Parrett Trail that runs from source to sea.

Langport

at the heart of the Somerset Levels

Find out more from our colourful riverside information boards or at Langport Library TA10 9RA
(opposite the Town Hall).

07494 665846 www.langport.life

Langport & its river

A re-discovery for the 2020s

Exploring the wild

Cranes & herons

Bulrushes

Water voles

White egrets

Damselflies

Swans

Eels

Dragonflies

Kingfishers

Fish

Moorhens

Willows

Otters

On foot, cycle or by boat, roam freely along this delightful river and its picturesque riverbank paths to experience the glories of our corner of the Somerset Levels.

And everything is just a stone's throw from the bustling town centre!

One of a series of 3 leaflets on exploring Langport